3. ARTÍCULOS: A / AN / THE / sin artículo

Sustantivo vs Adjetivo

Tipo de palabra	Función	Ejemplos	¿Lleva plural -s?
Sustantivo (noun)	Nombra personas, profesiones, lugares, cosas	doctor, engineer, student, book, school	Sí, siempre
Adjetivo (adjective)	Describe/califica al sustantivo	good, tired, beautiful, stupid, sad	No, nunca lleva -s ¿Cuándo usar A / AN?

El artículo aparece cuando hay un sustantivo contable singular en la oración (con o sin adjetivo adelante). El adjetivo solo, sin sustantivo, nunca lleva artículo.

Estructura	¿Lleva a/an?	Ejemplo
be + adjetivo (solo)	No	He is tired.
be + sustantivo (solo)	Sí	He is a doctor.
be + adjetivo + sustantivo	Sí	He is a tired doctor.

El sonido de la primera palabra (sea adjetivo o sustantivo) decide si es "a" o "an":

Sonido de la palabra siguiente	Artículo	Ejemplo
Empieza con sonido vocal	an	an engineer, an hour, an excellent doctor
Empieza con sonido consonante	a	a doctor, a good engineer, a university

Ojo: es el sonido, no la letra escrita. "an hour" (la H es muda) / "a university" (suena "yu-", sonido consonante).

¿Cuándo usar THE?

Se usa cuando el sustantivo es específico, ya identificado o conocido por el oyente (ya sea porque se mencionó antes o porque es obvio cuál es).

Situación	Artículo	Ejemplo
Primera mención / no importa cuál	a / an	I see a dog.
Ya identificado / específico	the	The dog is brown.
Plural o incontable, en general	sin artículo	Dogs are nice animals. / I like music.

Excepciones con lugares (home, work, school)

Expresión	Uso	Ejemplo
at home	siempre con "at", nunca "in home"	I am at home.
at work	siempre con "at", sin "the"	She is at work.
at school	lugar físico (sin "the")	They are at school.

in school	ser estudiante / etapa educativa	I am in school.
-----------	----------------------------------	-----------------
